MESSAGE FROM MLA CORALEE OAKES, CARIBOO NORTH

As your MLA here in Cariboo North, I continue to work hard to help create job opportunities in our region. Having worked in the small business community prior to becoming MLA for Cariboo North, I've witnessed some of the challenges that small business can face.

Our government wants to ensure that British Columbians are first in line for jobs here in B.C., including here at home. That's why we continue to expand job opportunities and align skills training with job market demands.

Last year, our government announced $153,000 in funding for 18 additional health-care assistant spaces at Quesnel's College of New Caledonia campus. Students can train here and choose to stay and work in the Cariboo.

During the recent Site C job fair and business networking session here in Quesnel, our community displayed a high level of interest in the Site C project, with more than 440 job seekers and 35 businesses meeting with the main civil works contractor to learn how they can benefit.

British Columbians gave us their ideas to reduce red tape. In my role as Minister of Small Business and Red Tape Reduction, I am working with our government to take action on those ideas by committing to more than 60 actions to reduce red tape and improve service delivery, and repeal 37 outdated or unnecessary regulations. Over the next year, people will see improvements to several government services – small changes that make doing business and accessing programs and information easier.

I'm proud to represent the resilient, strong and hard-working people of Quesnel. By working together, we can create more opportunities here in Quesnel.

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

On behalf of the City of Quesnel and Council, I welcome you to our beautiful City.

Quesnel is a livable city that people of all ages and ethnicities fall in love with, and tourists remember as a beautiful community at the confluence of two of BC's major rivers. For families, professionals, and seniors, Quesnel offers a wide array of amenities to support a full, active, and entertaining lifestyle. Quesnel has a strong and deep community spirit and its residents radiate their sense of community pride. We are fortunate and proud to have a group of dedicated volunteers supporting multiple causes, including major events like Billy Barker Days and our bi-annual Skyfest.

Quesnel is attractive to new businesses and our current businesses continue to grow and evolve to meet the changing demands of our residents and tourists alike. With a central location, affordable housing, many amenities and organized activities, great parks and green spaces, and an airport minutes from downtown, Quesnel is the perfect community to call home.

Whether you are visiting, investing, or looking to make Quesnel your home, I'm confident you'll find Quesnel to be a warm and vibrant community.

Come and enjoy what Quesnel has to offer!

Sincerely,

Mayor Bob Simpson

About this project:

The Opening Doors to Harm Reduction (ODHR) research project is working to learn more about hidden illicit drug use, service access and effective HIV prevention strategies in Northern and Rural BC. We want to increase our understanding about the experiences of people who engage in illicit drug use in Quesnel and surrounding areas and their use of health and social services. Our goal is to increase awareness of harm reduction strategies and improve how health and social services are provided to people using illicit drugs. Data for this project was collected from participants in Quesnel from 2010 to 2013.

Funding for the ODHR project provided by the Canadian Institute of Health Research, UNBC and Northern Health. Additional support for this brochure from the Community Action Initiative through North Cariboo Aboriginal Family Program Support Society.

For more information about the ODHR project, please contact: Heather Peters, Associate Professor and Principal Investigator School of Social Work, UNBC South Central Region, Quesnel BC

FINANCIAL TIPS

1. If you have financial issues talk with your bank early. Banks have specialists and support staff who can help if you have financial problems.
2. Work on a budget. Sitting down and reviewing all of your income sources and all of your expenses is an important step to figuring out where things can be cut back and improved.
3. Be honest with yourself and your bank. As with many other issues in life financial issues do not happen overnight and take a while to build up, and they will take a while to solve. Your bank is there to provide you with ideas on best next steps.
4. Stay calm and ask for help.
